A SURPRISING CASE.

Mr. Alex. W. Harris, a prominent lawyer at No. 1005 G st. n. w., Washington, D. C., under date of Jan. 11th, 1890, wrote to the A. E. C. Chemical Co., Richmond, Va., giving the history of a case of skin eruption of 20 years' standing the result of malignant blood disease. (At this time Mr. Harris had been unable to walk for six months.) In reply he was directed to use A. E. C. Alternative with the assurance that he would be cured. March 1st, 1890, Mr. Harris again wrote the A. E. C. Chemical Co. in the following words: "The improvement in my case so far is almost miraculous. I am really getting well, and can walk as well as I ever could, and my general health was never better. I shall write you from time to time. Meantime you can refer any one to me you desire, and I shall certainly tell them that the A. E. C. Alternative has done me more good in two months than has 20 years' experience with various eminent physicians and all other remedies tried." Under date of April 7th, 1890, Mr. Harris wrote, "I am entirely well."

The Ross Coon

The biggest coon ever killed in Maloe, fell a victim to Quire Hollis and four dogs in Woodbush Saturday. It is rare that hunters see a coon in the daytime, but Hollis had twice seen this big fellow run up the same tree, near from the Tuscarora Creek, a mile from Woodbush village. Hollis is not a coon hunter, but on Saturday he borrowed four coon dogs from different friends of his and went up to the creek to see if the coon would dare to show himself in broad daylight the third time. The coon did show himself, and what was singular, he seemed to be so proud of himself and his shape that he did not take the trouble to try and get out of sight when the hunter and the four dogs approached. He simply set his broad back against the trunk of his tree, and showing a savage row of teeth, coolly awaited further proceedings, for all the world like his big and ugly cousin, the bear. This was something so unusual for coons to do that the four dogs were taken aback at first, and all came to a halt within twenty feet of the coon. Hollis carried an axe, with which he had intended to chop down the tree when he had treed the coon, after the manner of coon hunters in that part of the State, but as the coon hadn't seen fit to tree, he was sorry he hadn't brought a gun instead of the axe. After the first shock of their surprise at the unprecedented conduct of the coon was over, the dogs made a grand and united rush for the rash animal. Hollis says that the result of that confident rush of the dogs came so quick, and was so entirely unexpected, that it was like a cyclone. There was a commingling of dogs' legs and tails with coon's legs and tail in a grand pyrotechnic whirl for two or three seconds, accompanied by a radiating shower of hair, and a wild chorus of yelps and yells. Then there was another wild rush of dogs, but this time in a direction opposite to that taken in the first rush, and the next moment the scene was dogless. The coon had whipped all four of the dogs so quick that it was hardly worth while saying that they had been in it at all. And the coon didn't seem inclined to stop at that, either. Hollis says, but kept right on while he was in, and rushed directly forward to finish the day with Hollis. Armed with the axe, however, Hollis took his ground, and one blow from the heavy weapon on the coon's head laid the doughty fellow low. Hollis carried his prize in with a good deal of pride, as well he might, for it weighed over thirty-six pounds, sixteen pounds heavier than any coon the hunters in that part of the State have any record of.

TURNED OVER TO HIS SUCCESSOR.—On Monday last was recorded in the clerk's office of the Hustings Court a deed from Rt. Rev. John J. Keane, late Bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Richmond, Va., conveying to Augustus Van de Vyver, now Bishop of the Diocese, in consideration of "the sum of fifty dollars, all the property or estate of said Keane in the Diocese of Richmond," including that "conveyed to him by his predecessor in office, the Most Reverend James Gibbons (Archbishop of Baltimore), by his deed dated Sept. 12th, 1878." The recording of the deed is the evidence of transfer usual at the accession of a new bishop, and is done in every county or city where any property of the church is located. The amount of property conveyed is about $600,000. There is no tax on the deed, it being the property of a church.—Staunton Indicator.

WHERE THE GOLD GOES.—A French scientist, Victor Menier, has calculated, after careful inquiries, that American dentists insert about $450,000 worth of gold annually into the teeth of their customers. The Scientific American says that, making allowance for the increase of population, in less than a hundred years American emeralds will contain a larger amount of gold than now exists in France.

CRYSTALIZED LENSES. FITZHUGH LEE. LEXINGTON, VA., January 17, 1890. Mr. A. K. Hawks: Dear Sir—When I require the use of glasses I wear your beautiful crystalized lenses. MEDICINAL.

NOTHING LIKE IT. Its peculiar efficacy in all cases of indigestion, biliousness, constipation, headache, dizziness, nervousness, and all the ailments of the liver and bowels, makes it a most valuable remedy. It is a purely vegetable preparation, and is entirely free from all the dangerous and deleterious ingredients of the many so-called "liver pills" and "bowel regulators" which are so commonly used. It is a most valuable remedy for all the ailments of the liver and bowels, and is entirely free from all the dangerous and deleterious ingredients of the many so-called "liver pills" and "bowel regulators" which are so commonly used.

It takes the place of a doctor and a costly prescription. All who lead sedentary lives will find it the best preventive of indigestion, biliousness, constipation, headache, dizziness, nervousness, and all the ailments of the liver and bowels. It is a most valuable remedy for all the ailments of the liver and bowels, and is entirely free from all the dangerous and deleterious ingredients of the many so-called "liver pills" and "bowel regulators" which are so commonly used.
